Come to me,
all you that
are weary and
are carrying
heavy burdens, and I will give you
rest. Take my yoke upon
you, and learn from me; for I am gentle and
humble in
heart, and you
will find rest
for your souls. For my
yoke is easy,
and my burden is light.”

Miracle of the Fishes in Kazakhstan

Until Pope Francis visited Kazakhstan last week and brought attention to the faith and culture of the local Catholic population, many may not have been aware of nor associated Kazakhstan, south of Russia, as a site of a modern-day miracle of the fishes.

After the Second World War, people of northern Kazakhstan experienced hunger. And what they could do, was just to pray to the Almighty. Prior to the miracle, people were praying the rosary, under the Communist regime, there were no priests and no Masses were celebrated.

During spring, when the snow started to melt, a small lake appeared. And to the surprise of many, in this lake, there were so many fish. There were enough for the people of this region, and even for people from other parts of Kazakhstan. The majority of people understood it as an answer of God for our prayers.

This miracle took place on 25 March 1941, as the people were starving during the Second World War. A small church was built, it is now the national shrine, where "for many years, people have received another food, not fish, but spiritual food."
