Come to me,
all you that
are weary and
are carrying
heavy burdens, and I
will give you
rest. Take my yoke upon
you, and learn from me; for I am gentle and
humble in
heart, and you
will find rest
for your souls. For my
yoke is easy,
and my burden is light.”

This indulgence is applicable only to the souls of the departed.

A writing on the entrance door of a small cemetery which is up North comes to mind: “You who are walking, think about your steps, and of your steps, think about the final step”.

You who are walking. Life is a journey, all of us are on a journey. All of us, if we wish to do something in life, are on a journey. It is not a stroll, nor is it a labyrinth, no, it is a journey. On the way, we pass in front of many historical events, in front of many difficult situations. And also in front of cemeteries. The advice of this cemetery is: “You who are passing by, halt your step and think, and of your steps, think about the final step”. We will all have a final step. Some may say to me, “Father, don’t be so mournful, don’t be so tragic”. But it is the truth. The important thing is that that final step finds us on a journey, not strolling around; in the journey of life and not in an endless labyrinth. To be on a journey so that the last step finds us walking.
