Come to me, all you that are weary and are carrying heavy burdens, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me; for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

Would you like your home blessed? "We must ask the Lord to grant us the Holy Spirit and to grant us the gift of wisdom, that wisdom of God that teaches us to see with God's eyes, to feel with God's heart, to speak with God's words. And so, with this wisdom, let us go forward, let us build our family, let us build the Church, and we will all be sanctified." Pope Francis. If you would like your home blessed, contact Fr. The little children know how to welcome them, and Jesus thanks the Father for them: “I bless you,” he says, because you have revealed the Kingdom of Heaven to little ones. Jesus praises him for the simple people whose hearts are free from presumption and self-love. The little ones are those who, like children, feel their need and are not self-sufficient. They are open to God and allow themselves to be amazed at his works. They know how to read his signs, to marvel at the miracles of his love! I ask all of you, and even myself, do we know how to marvel at the things of God or do we take them for passing things?

Brothers and sisters, if we think about it, our lives are filled with miracles – they are filled with deeds of love, signs of God’s goodness. Before these, however, even our hearts can remain indifferent and become habitual, curious but not capable of being amazed, of allowing themselves to be “impressed”. A closed heart, an armed heart, that does not have the capacity of being amazed. To impress is a beautiful verb that brings to mind photographic film. This is the correct behaviour before God’s works: to take a photo of his works in our minds so it is impressed on our hearts, to then be developed in our lives through many good deeds, so that this “photograph” of God who is love becomes ever brighter in us and through us. Pope Francis last Sunday in Rome.

At least 300 migrants missing off the shores of Tenerife: Spanish rescuers search waters off the Canary Islands for a boat carrying at least 200 African migrants that went missing more than a week ago. Another two boats carrying over 100 migrants have also been missing for over two weeks. 14,000 have died trying to get from Africa to Europe. The news comes just a few weeks after Europe experienced one of its worst migrant shipwrecks in the Mediterranean, that of the fishing boat that sank off the Greek coast: at least 78 people are confirmed dead, but the United Nations reported that up to 500 are presumed dead.
